CITIES PREPARE TO OBSERVE A DAY OF THANKS THURSDAY

Diversified Program Of Entertainment Is Being Planned

UNION SERVICES AT THE CHURCHES

Football Games Lure Many Fans To Grid Contests

Proclaimed by the mayors of Albany and Decatur as a day of returning thanks for their blessings, citizens of the two municipalities were preparing today to observe Thanksgiving Thursday.

Early indications were that a diversified holiday program would be observed by local people. Many were preparing for one-day hunting trips and stores handling hunters' equipment reported sales extra heavy today.

While no football game is scheduled locally, the lure of the gridiron was manifest in the plans being made by fans to attend Turkey day battles. The Vanderbilt-Sewanee fight in Nashville was a magnet for scores while the Alabama-Georgia tie-up in Birmingham was attracting others. Special coaches will carry a large section of local fandom to Huntsville to witness the scrap between Albany high school and Huntsville high, ancient gridiron rivals, who meet there in the final game of the year.

Members of Rising Sun Lodge plan a Thanksgiving afternoon program. Degree work will be started at two o'clock and at its conclusion, probably five, the members will be served a banquet by the ladies of the Eastern Star.

Members of the Valley Country club and scores of other guests are looking forward with keen anticipation to the Thanksgiving night dance at the club. Music will be furnished by the "Revelers." Members in viting guests for the occasion were instructed to provide such guests with cars.

Special programs will be offered at the local theaters, Manager Ratliff having arranged good movie programs at all of the local playhouses.

Thanksgiving services will be held at churches of the Twin Cities on Thursday morning, union services having been arranged in South Albany, Central Albany and Decatur according to announcements today.

The service in South Albany will be held in the Ninth Street Methodist church, the address of the occasion being delivered by A. R. Prosser. The service in Central Albany will be held in the Central Methodist church at 10:30 o'clock, Rev. Noble R. Edwards, pastor of the Christian church, being the speaker while choirs of the central churches will render the musical program. At the same hour union services will be held in the First Methodist church, Decatur, the sermon being delivered by Rev. J. D. Wallace, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. McGlathery will have charge of the musical program. An offering will be taken for the Benevolent Society.

The proclamations of the mayors issued today, follow:

"Thursday, November 26, having been set aside by American custom and having been proclaimed by the President of the United States as a day on which to return thanks to Him who makes all our blessings possible, I hereby call upon the citizens of Albany to observe this date as one of thanksgiving. F. L. Carswell, mayor of Albany."

"Time having hallowed the custom and our President having set aside Thanksgiving Day, I hereby call upon the citizens of Decatur to observe this date as one on which we pause from our daily labor to recount our blessings and give thanks to Our Creator who has so bountifully blessed us. James A. Nelson, mayor of Decatur."

Cotton Seed In Ear Is Fatal To Somerville Youth

Funeral services were held on Tuesday for Muriel Henderson, aged eight years, of Somerville, who died Monday morning as a result of inflammation of the brain, following the lodging of a cotton seed in the child's ear several weeks ago.

The deceased was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanko Henderson, well known residents of the Somerville section. The child was laid to rest Tuesday in the Winton cemetery, Rev. J. B. Rice, of Hartselle conducting the service.

CONVICTS WON'T MISS THURSDAY

State Plans Turkey And All Fixin's For The Event

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 25.—Three thousand and some odd convicts in the eight penal institutions of Alabama will eat Turkey Thanksgiving. More than that, they will have all the "fixins."

For many years it has been a custom in Alabama to give state prisoners a holiday on Thanksgiving and to regale them on the same kind of a Turkey dinner that they would have had "outside." This year prison authorities are following this custom to the last letter and prison inmates will be fed bountifully.

Something like 1,900 pounds of turkey will be required to give every body plenty on Thanksgiving and an order for the turkey was placed some time ago. In addition, orders have been placed for 65 gallons of sweet pickles, 1,200 pounds of grapes, 1,600 pounds of bananas, 3,125 bars of peppermint candy, 3,125 bars of peanut candy, 3,050 ten cent cigars and 1,000 cigarettes. The prison bakeries will turn out a bounteous supply of bread and cakes for the occasion.

Boiled ham, sliced cheese, raisin bread, cranberry sauce, creamed Irish potatoes, candied yams cold slaw and coffee will be included in the menu. "Dressing" for the turkey will be supplied.

Athletic contests dancing contests, radio concerts, music and amateur theatricals will be staged for the amusement of the prisoners. At one prison there will even be a football game between convict teams.

WEST RELEASED ON $5000 BOND

Bail Arranged In Short Time After Decision Given By Court

J. Monroe West, Albany policeman, who was granted bail in the sum of $5,000 by Circuit Court Judge James E. Horton late Tuesday, arranged the bond a short time after the decision was rendered and obtained his release.

Mr. West's counsel instigated a habeas corpus proceedings in the circuit court the hearing being set for Tuesday.

The defendant was held without bail on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of Asberry Murry, negro, during a raid in Oklahoma, following a preliminary trial in county court before Judge Lowe.

W. D. McIntire Dies At Residence Here

Funeral services are being arranged for W. D. McIntire, who died early this morning at his home in South Albany. Salvation Army officials today appealed to local people who will aid the stricken family in their hour of sorrow to get into communication with the Army headquarters immediately.

UNDERWOOD PLANS TO "ANSWER" LODGE IN SOLON'S MEMOIRS

Political History Will Be Traced, Senator Admits Today

FOUR OFFERS FOR BOOK RECEIVED

Senator In Louisville To Attend Funeral Of Half-Sister

(Associated Press)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 25.—The memoirs Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, plans to write after he retires from congress on March 4, 1927, probably will discuss some of the statement made in the recently published book of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Senator Underwood said before leaving here for Washington.

Political history in Washington, since before the Spanish-American war and the development of the South are to be included in the book, the Senator said.

Called here to the funeral of his half-sister, Mrs. Marinda Underwood, Senator Underwood left for Washington last night on receipt of a telegram telling him of the death of a sister-in-law, Mrs. Sidney Underwood, in Augusta, Ga.

Saying he probably would accept one of four offers from publishing houses to publish the book, Senator Underwood said the writing would require a year or 18 months.

"The writing will cover political history in Washington since before the Spanish-American war and the development of the Southland for the past 25 years."

"My memoirs probably will discuss some of the statements made in the recently published book of the late Senator Lodge. He and I led opposite sides in the consideration of the treaty of Versailles by the senate and I imagine my remarks on that subject will differ somewhat from his."

Senator Underwood will be 65 years old when he retires, after serving 32 consecutive years in congress.

Mother Of Alice On Stand Today

(Associated Press)

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 25.—The elderly white mother of Alice Beatrice Jones, defendant in the Rhinelander annulment suit, today took the stand in behalf of her mother and denied that she had ever heard Alice lay claim to being white.

It has been one of the contentions of Leonard K. Rhinelander, the plaintiff, that Alice had assured him she was white in the presence of her mother.

Justice Moreschauser this afternoon granted the plaintiff's request to amend the original complaint, over objections of defense counsel. The amended complaint now charges Alice with defrauding young Rhinelander negatively in not telling him she was of negro blood.

SHOP FOREMEN TO CONVENE TONIGHT

Committees Announced For Central Albany By Chairman

Committees planning the drive for the Y. M. C. A. campaign for the coming week were busily engaged today with final arrangements prior to the gathering of shop foremen at the Y. M. C. A. tonight, at which time it is hoped that plans may be perfected for making the Louisville and Nashville boys practically solid behind the local organization for the ensuing year.

Chairman F. A. Bloodworth, Albany, announced his committees today following a meeting at the Morgan County National bank. The following is a list of the workers and their location:

Albany, Second avenue, East and West.

Second street or Jackson to Grant E. R. Clements, Dallas Martin, Garner Pride, W. W. Rahm; Grant to Johnston: E. W. Strother, W. W. Rahm, Lamar Penney, T. G. Crane; Johnston to Moulton: J. L. Proctor, J. T. Rainey, M. R. Rankin, H. A. Wyatt; Moulton to Lee B. C. Shelton: A. L. Malone, H. H. Hunter, T. Z. Bailey; Moulton street from First avenue West: G. H. Wiggins, B. A. Turner; Industries: Charles Rountree Roy Nash; Fourth avenue Neill Abel, Jack Dillehay.

A meeting was in progress this afternoon at the Tennessee Valley bank for the purpose of selecting the Decatur committee. Clyde Hendrix, president with Murrie Dix, A. T. Henson, Walter CLOPTON, D. D. Burleson, W. E. Roper, Thomas Hodson, D. D. McGehee, J. H. McMath, C. J. Randolph and C. W. Mathews in attendance.

Committeemen stated that plans are carrying well and that interest is highest in years. The Y. M. C. A. is planning an auditorium and gymnasium dependent to a great extent upon the success of the drive. The goal has been set at 1,000 members in the cities.

Two Fire Alarms On Same Day

The Albany fire department yesterday answered two alarms, the first coming from East Albany where sparks on the roof damaged the residence of F. G. Randolph. Tuesday afternoon the department extinguished with chemicals a blaze in the home of F. A. Bloodworth, on Johnston street.

MORGAN GINNINGS REACH TO 31,310 TO NOVEMBER 14

Dream Of 40,000 Bale Crop Will Not Come True

Abandonment Will Hold County Yield Below Mark

Official cotton ginning tabulations for Morgan county for the period ending November 14, counting round as half bales, show that 31,310 bales had been ginned, according to the statement given today by the department of commerce, bureau of the census. The report was issued through W. V. Davidson, well known local man, and is compared with 21,193 bales in 1924 at the same period.

People today through the section believed that the final crop estimate for this county will prove the largest in years, but dreams of a 40,000 bale crop had gone glimmering. It is believed that the crop will go to a figure near 35,000.

The 40,000 bale crop would, no doubt have been realized had it not been for the falling market with the continued gigantic estimates made by the government, the poor weather conditions prevailing, and the abandonment of much cotton in the fields, planters feeling that the market price would not justify the employment of labor, the ginning and pressing.

Industries included in the cotton circle continued to order full steam ahead today with the continued demand for ginning and pressing, but the demand is nothing like as heavy as it has been. No estimate can be given at this time of the amount of cotton actually ginned in plants located in the Twin Cities, but for many weeks past local gins have been running night and day in an effort to catch up with the farmers. Agriculturists made every possible effort to get the cotton out of the fields before the advent of the rainy season.

PROBE ASKED

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—An investigation by the department of justice into the controversy over federal aid state road funds in Texas has been requested by Senator Mayfield, democrat, of that state.

Today:

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1925, By The Star Co.) For Albany-Decatur Daily.

DAVID STERN in his able Camden, N. J., Courier asks which is the more powerful as an influence on character, fear of punishment, or hope of reward.

Clergymen through the centuries have debated that question some have dwelt upon the delights of heaven, others, majority a perhaps, upon the horrors of hell. Preachers and Puritan pupils dilated upon future torments for the wicked, in their delight almost forgetting about heaven. To them it was sort of a grand stand enabling the redeemed to watch tortures below congratulating themselves on their escape.

MOHAMMED EMPHASIZED the rewards of his high grade Turkish paradise, die fighting for me and Allah, he said and you'll wake up in bliss. Beautiful young girls their bodies made of solid musk, will surround you and will never grow old. They will be young, wine will be free, very strong, but you will never get drunk and your wife will not be there.

The answer to Editor Stern's question is this the best men do their work not fearing punishment

The Daily Will Take The Day Off For Thanksgiving

In accordance with the custom prevailing throughout the years of its existence, the Daily will not publish on Thanksgiving. We are signing off that our employees might have a brief breathing period before the rush of the Christmas season. We are giving thanks Thursday and all the days of the year for the treatment we have received in these two fine communities throughout the year. The Daily hopes a pleasant and profitable Thanksgiving day to the folks of the Tennessee Valley.

TWO NEGROES HELD AFTER ATTACKS

One Defendant Said To Have Identified Assailant

(Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—Two negroes were under arrest here today charged with attacking women, after the reappearance of the "Strangler," a crafty individual or individuals whose swift and sudden attacks on lone and unescorted women during the past few weeks has caused the death of three women and created terror here.

One of the prisoners gave his name as Ed Jackson. He was arrested a few minutes after Mrs. M. Cassinow encountered a strange man in her house, fought off his advances, screamed "negro" from her doorstep and then fell in a faint. The other suspect is William Davis, held without bail, on a charge of attacking Miss Gladys Levin, a semi-invalid, a few minutes after she had alighted from a street car. She later aided in capturing him.

Both men denied attacking the women, but detectives said they were certain that Davis was the man who clutched Miss Levin by the throat. Miss Levin identified him in court and Miss Dorothy Robins, who told police she was seized and choked by a man a week ago, partially identified Davis as her assailant.

The necks of both Mrs. Cassinow and Miss Levin showed bruises where their attackers had tried to choke them. In court Miss Levin screamed faintly and became hysterical when Davis was brought into the room.

Fear or Hope? Envy and Jealousy Women the Dull Life. Cheap Longer Life.

THE BIBLE SAYS truly that jealousy burns with a most vehement flame and warns against envy. Jealousy and envy are the curses of feeble minds and 999 out of 1,000 minds are feeble.

Jealousy is a mental poison. Ask poor Albee Woolly of Paris. Inside of a glass cage he gave a fasting exhibition for profit. He had not tasted food for twelve days when a young woman gazing upon him ate a chocolate éclair as she gazed. The faster she ate the glass with his chair in envious rage, was overcome and is now in an insane asylum.

Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's ass, nor his ox nor his chocolate éclair. Beware of envy, it is useless to add warning against jealousy. No one conquers that.

DOCUMENT SENT WARDEN SCOTT

Gunman Loses Fight To Halt Execution Of Death Penalty

(Associated Press)

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 25.—Gerald Chapman has informed his counsel that he will not accept presidential commutation of his robbery sentence. It is believed, in the absence of official statements, that commutation of Chapman's federal prior sentence will be the state's answer to the writ of habeas corpus served on Warden Scott late yesterday ordering him to produce Chapman before Federal Judge Thomas in court at state prison next Wednesday.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 25.—The federal sentence of Gerald Chapman has been commuted by President Coolidge, the executive order terminating the sentence of 25 years imposed in the federal courts of New York for the robbery of a mail truck being signed by the President at six o'clock Monday evening and made public today, when the document was delivered to Warden H. W. K. Scott, for service on Chapman.

The official document which terminated federal interest in Gerald Chapman was brought back to Hartford by United States Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn and was delivered to Warden Scott for service on Chapman. The warden immediately prepared to do this and the action marked another step in the efforts of the state of Connecticut to execute Chapman for the murder of a policeman in New Britain on October 11, 1924.

COTTON GATHERING PROGRESS BETTER

Alabama Condition Is Improved, Bureau Report Shows

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Gathering of cotton that remained in the field made good progress during the week with favorable weather remaining for field work, the department of agriculture announced today in its summary of conditions in the Southern states.

It was ideal for harvesting in the northwestern portion of the cotton belt and the dry, sunny weather with low humidity, was much more favorable for open cotton. Picking made very good progress in Texas, but previous rains have greatly lowered the grade in that state, while the raining out in Oklahoma is mostly of low grade.

Considerable cotton is still unpicked in the more western portion of the belt. In Arkansas picking is practically completed in many localities while harvest made good advance in North Carolina, the northern portions of Alabama, Mississippi and in Tennessee.

The cooler weather improved the citrus fruits in Florida and heavy shipments are reported from that state, while satsumas are being marketed in carload lots. Citrus are good in southern Texas. The frost and freezing temperatures that have over spread the southeastern states at the close of the weekend extended into northern Florida probably damaged some tender vegetation in that area. There was also some frost damage to trucks in the south-central Texas and some light local harm in the Mississippi valley. Otherwise the

ALBANY AND DECATUR HAVE MUCH TO BE THANKFUL FOR THIS YEAR

The Daily carries several news notices, advising the public of the place for union Thanksgiving services Thursday, when citizens will gather to render praise to Him who has made possible the many blessings this community has enjoyed during the year.

Aside from Christmas, the observance of Thanksgiving Day is one of the most beautiful customs in American history. From the time the early fathers of the nation gathered to return thanks to providence for their escape from the perils of their adventuresome existence to the present, Americans set aside a day in each twelve months to pause in their race for commercial advantage, to give thanks. As a result Thanksgiving has taken on much of a spiritual atmosphere and in the midst of the relentless demands of a busy world, Thanksgiving today stands forth as a bright symbol of our dependence in Him for the blessings he so bountifully gives to us.

Thanksgiving should be, to each of us, more than a day of feasting. The heavily laden tables are symbolic of the good things of life bestowed during the year, but it is important that we not forget these union services Thanksgiving morning, wherein we may gather and return thanks to our Creator.

GENERAL BUTLER DISCOVERS THAT OFFICE HOLDERS DO NOT HAVE A BED OF ROSES

General Butler, of the United States Marine corps, who, two years ago, was borrowed from the service to become director of public safety in Philadelphia, is going back to the marines, a very much disgusted individual. He has discovered that office holding in civil life is far from being a bed of roses and avers that he never will hold another civil office, except in time of war.

General Butler made the same discovery other men before him made, that attempting to serve the public in an official capacity is a man-sized task and then some. That is one reason so many people decline absolutely to take active part in politics. It is sad, but it is true and General Butler's final verbal fling at the people of Philadelphia does not speak well for some cross sections of American life. He says:

"I was brought here at the insistence of your leading political men. I was told that you were dirty, filthy and you needed a cleaning. After I came everyone ran away except your mayor. They insulted me, kicked me around and you sat back and let them. I've shed more blood for my country and your country than all the politicians in seven generations. I have learned a lot of things, and no one can ever persuade me to serve in a public office again except in war time."

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR USE OF DRIVERS OF AUTOMOBILES

The Daily does not know the original source of the ten commandments, listed below, but The Daily re-publishes them hoping that they will aid some automobile drivers, at least, in avoiding accidents:

1. Thou shalt not travel at an excessive speed, either by night or by day or on any highway, for they that "sow the wind shall reap the whirlwind."
2. Thou shalt not drive when there is even so much as drop of alcoholic liquor within thee; lest thy days be short or thou become the slayer of thy neighbor.
3. Thou shalt not jaywalk, for a jaywalker in the path of an automobile is like the chaff which the wind driveth away.
4. Thou shalt not steal the "right-of-way," neither shalt thou fail to stop at boulevards; lest there be weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth and the Angel of Death follow thy wake.
5. Thou shalt not cut in ahead of another automobile at any curve or turn or at any place without sufficient clearance, for they that heed not this commandment shall perish from the face of the earth and may shed the blood of the innocent.
6. Thou shalt not loiter nor amuse thyself in the streets or thoroughfares lest thy joy be turned to sorrow and the undertaker wax exceedingly fat through thy folly.
7. Thou shalt not fail to look to the right and to the left, before thee and behind thee, and to use all the brains with which thou wert endowed when approaching railroad crossings, lest thy flesh and bones be scattered and you and those that travel with thee shall know thee as their slayer.
8. Thou shalt not fail to signal, either when thou desireth to turn or to stop thy automobile, lest thou lure thy neighbor to destruction or thy self to an unhallowed end.
9. Thou shalt have no glaring headlights upon thy automobile or motorcycle or any vehicle thou wouldst maintain; for they that heed not this commandment are like unto a great pestilence.
10. Thou shalt heed the welfare of all that live; doing unto others as thou wouldst be done by, so that thou shall be beloved in the land.

PRISON REFORM, SO-CALLED, SEEMS TO HAVE FALLEN SHORT OF THE MARK

Prison reformers, in Georgia, demanded and obtained the abolition of the lash as a means of punishment to convicts who violate prison regulations. Press dispatches from Atlanta, however, indicate that the reform movement has fallen far short of the mark at which it was aimed.

An Associated Press dispatch from Atlanta states: Strong advocacy among many prison camp wardens in Georgia for a return to the lash in punishing convicts for infractions of chain gang rules, is prompting them to devise methods of punishment to appear as brutal as possible before legislative inspection committees. E. I. Rainey, member of the Georgia prison commission, believes.

Flogging was abolished by a recent legislature and in recent months there has been some agitation among the wardens for a repeal of the statute.

Mr. Rainey said that a meeting of the commission will be held early in December to consider suggestions for a uniform method of punishment in conformity with the law.

Reports from sub-committees to Representative Emmett Williams, chairman of the House penitentiary committee, tell of many peculiar modes of punishment that have been devised since the abolition of the lash.

One camp, Mr. Williams said, fastens prisoners in a shallow box so they cannot move their arms. Molasses then is smeared over their exposed faces, leaving them powerless to brush away the flies attracted by the molasses.

At other camps, he said, prisoners are backed up to a post with their arms chained behind them. The arms then are raised as high as possible and hung to nails, the prisoner being left in this position for several hours.

Reports several days ago told of the finding of stocks in several prison camps, resembling those used in the early days of American history by the Puritans of Massachusetts. In some cases, the report said, the stocks were padded, but in others the openings were left square and bare, fitting tightly around the neck, wrists and ankles of the prisoners, sometimes cutting deeply into them.

Shorn of their authority to use the whip, resourceful wardens have devised other means to make convicts realize that even in prison there are rules which must be complied with.

The Daily does not believe that prison wardens should have the authority to inflict indiscriminate punishment on unfortunates who come into their hands, but it is inconceivable that wardens should not be entrusted with some means to enforce their authority.

People who will break the law on the outside frequently find it is not difficult for them to break prison regulations. If these infractions are to go unpunished, they will increase in number. No institution yet has been advised which can be operated without regulations, prisons not excepted.

Surely the abolition of the lash and the installation of stocks and other instruments of torture in its place cannot be considered a sweeping victory for prison reform.

band, father of King George. Both will be at peace, at least we think so, as they lie side by side. You may compare the lives of men and women the amount of fun they have.

Alexandra's husband, Prince of Wales, then king, lead an intensely exciting life. Many friends, male and female interesting games of baccarat, not a dull moment. She Alexandra, queen does not escape that pain, bore all the royal children, stayed at home, read a little poetry, was deeply respected and died with little knowledge of life.

Do women see the dull side of life? Yes, if they behave themselves and if they don't behave the world finds a way to punish them. It might pay this government to establish a livestock department to interest itself in human beings.

DR. CUMMING, surgeon general of the United States says the Milbank Memorial fund experiments in Syracuse and Cattaraugus County, N. Y., prove that human life can be made longer at a cost of only $50 a year per lesson. Fifty dollars a head is the cost of the giving populations the benefit of scientific treatment preventative medical skill. Millions are made useless and their lives shortened by neglected teeth, others cut down their production and their life by foolish eating. The average adult can earn at least $4,000 a year so $50 a year seems reasonable cost for longer life. It would be cheap for a $500 automobile. With immigration foolishly cut off, it is important for selfish reasons to keep workers going as long as possible.

PATRIOTIC ITALIANS suggest that five million each contribute $1 a year to meet Italy's five year payment on the United States war loan. Italian are ardent patriots and one very good sign is the affection they retain for the mother country as every honorable worth-while man should do, after they move to another country. For instance Gaetano Napolitano, a druggist living near Detroit, suggested. He agrees to pay $100 to Italian consul every month for five years and sends to this writer as first installment six practically good checks for $100 each. The checks have been returned the facts printed. They throw light on Italian character not well understood by many in this country.

IN LONDON 12 communists are on trial in old Bailey charged with sedition and conspiracy. Their friend, the Reds decide to parade and wind up with a noisy demonstration at the court.

Imagine any reds attempting any such nonsense in this free land.

The British take such things mildly. They allow the procession to start and sent policemen along when the procession approached old Bailey the police headed it in another direction quietly. No broken heads, no violence. Red ladies and gentlemen were allowed to talk and yell and sing the international until they were hoarse and all went home but feeling better. That is how they manage such things in England.

It is wise. Every engine needs a safety valve.

THE SOUTHERN SERVES THE SOUTHWill the South join in financing its own railroad needs?

Southern capital is being invested in many new enterprises along the lines of the Southern Railway System.

An even greater gain in production and prosperity in the South in the next ten years than was witnessed in the last ten seems inevitable.

But industry can expand no faster than the railroads that bring fuel and raw materials, and carry the finished products to the markets of the country. Money must be invested in railroads as well as factories, if industry is to be efficiently served.

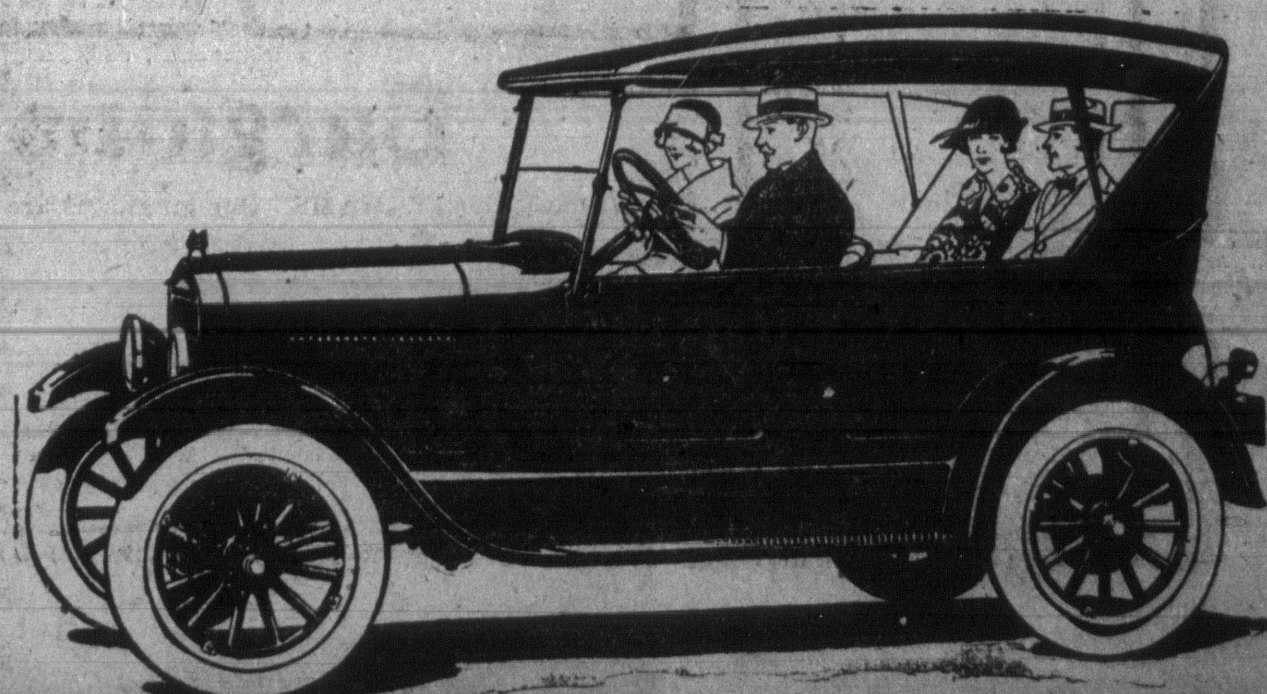

That much of this new railroad capital should come from the South itself seems a natural result of the growing investment wealth of the South.

"Bobbed Hair"

A DAZZLING MYSTERY STORY BY TWENTY FAMOUS AUTHORS

Copyright 1924 by E. P. Collier & Son Co. and G. D. Putnam's Sons. "BOBBED HAIR" with Marie Prevost is a dramatization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Aunt Celimena, Brewster, her lawyer, Salt Adams and Bing Carrington, left tonight's Connecticut hoping after midnight to search for Congressman Moore, who had mysteriously disappeared the night she was to have announced her engagement. They find a motor boat in a slip on the shore of Long Island Sound and appropriate it. Soon they stop the craft on a sinking boat, when several men, armed with pistols, are pushed unceremoniously into the water.

The moon, shining imperially on victors and vanquished, showed the original ship's company of the Filomena in sorry plight. Salt was propped against the railings, his arms pinioned behind him but his legs free. His classic features were somewhat marred through contact with hob-nailed boots, as well as the length of pipe whose acquaintance Bing had made.

He was still a perplexing distance behind the tide of events. Semiconsciously he spelled out the name on the battered bow of the aggressor, Bloody Nuisance, and, still hazily, tried to attach some meaning to the name, to grope for some connection, but failed.

Aunt Celimena was stretched out, not far from him, on a bench. She was very pale except for a dark streak of blood that stood out diagonally across one cheek. Mr. Brewster lay in a confused and terrified heap in the bottom of the boat.

"I guess I like to croaked the old dame, but she shouldn't have grabbed my legs the way she done, and pinched me too." The speaker removed a longly checked cap, possessed of an abnormally long peak that had thrown his face into shadow. The moonbeams played caressingly upon a polished dome of surprising magnitude.

"You're a rough lot! That ain't no manners!"

Pooch, for it was he, kicked meditatively at the prostrate form of Mr. Brewster, and the man in the torn jersey, who had been the first to board the Filomena, came over to stand beside him, staring down at the lawyer.

"This old geezer ain't much better off neither. I guess the other bird's drowned; little Mary here, has a way with her that don't call for much back chat." He patted the scellon of pipe tenderly. "This here's the hell an' all of a fix Doc an' you have bin and got us into," he added in a different tone. "What're you going to do about it?"

Pooch contemplated the speaker a minute with an expression of virtuous indignation.

"We got you out of, you mean. I'd like to know where you'd bin if Doc hadn't figured out a way to flash that message to you. Walking plumb into a trap, that's where you'd bin, by now. That little Scotch devil had it all baited an' set for you."

Before the other could reply to this, a slight, trim figure appeared on the deck of the crippled boat and announced in a calm voice:

"You won't have to bother with the old Bloody Nuisance no more. She's pretty near fished. One of you heave this guy over."

Without a word Doc clambered over and picked up a limp bundle of clothes, lowering it none too gently into the Swede's tender possession.

"Say, bring a bit of rag with you, Sweetie, to plug up this old Jane," called Pooch, turning, "she's bleeding some."

Sweetie stopped to pick up from the deck something that looked like a white scarf, and jumping briskly ly down onto the Filomena, bent over Aunt Celimena. After a hasty examination, she straightened up, casting a glance of withering scorn at Doc, who happened to be near. Involuntarily that gentleman retreated a step or two, his face assuming swiftly an abashed and hang-dog expression that sat incongruously enough upon it.

Seymour Lynne student of Auburn arrived Tuesday night to spend the weekend with his parents Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Lynne.

"You're a rough lot, banging a woman about this way. That ain't no manners," the girl said fiercely. "Clear out now, an' leave me in peace!" Defiantly she bathed the face and neck, discovering a slash on her head to be only a superficial wound. She completed her first-aid ministrations by winding the white scarf about her patient's brow turban-wise, giving the old lady a rakish, practical appearance. Then she stood back and cast an appraising eye over the scene before her.

Sweetie had spoken correctly. The Bloody Nuisance had been slowly settling. Now, with a final lurch she dived forward, following her battered bow under.

The Swede watched her disappear, stolidly unconcerned.

"Gets rid of some o' the evidence," he said in a matter-of-fact tone. His glance went to Aunt Celimena's turbaned head, and the little, beady eyes narrowed unpleasantly.

"What's the fuse of doin' the old girl up?" he demanded. "We got to clean up all these bums."

Pooch slowly turned to him. "I don't go in for bumping off birds in bunches. I ain't that kind of a guy, see?"

"Well, what 'n hell'd you want?" "I want to get the boat off this mud flat she seems to have landed on for keeps, after that you can set me down here on the Long Island side somewhere handy, and then go to the devil and take her with you."

The Swede muttered something inaudible, but set his crew to work, nevertheless, carrying out the first part of Pooch's suggestion.

With the help of the rapidly rising tide, prying the Filomena loose from the mud flat on which she had drifted during the fight, proved a simple task. Salt was ordered into the water to help, and even the bedraggled and thoroughly dazed Brewster was unceremoniously bundled over the side to aid in the launching. Hearty kicks, however, failed entirely to arouse the mysterious stranger whom Doc had lifted down from the deck of the Bloody Nuisance. The medicine administered evidently approached being an overdose, for the only response to the kicks was a feeble groan.

As the Filomena fetched free there was a scramble to get on board. Salt with his bound arms was hauled roughly up the side, and in rolling over tripped Sweetie's feet from under her. That efficient young person steadied herself by grasping the most convenient portion of his anatomy which happened to be his hair. Salt had long since cast dignity and reserve to the winds; and seeing no petticoats to call for a gentlemanly restraint he hurried oblations at the wearer of Lady's fashionable yachting costume.

The young lady was about to reply in kind, when she pulled the stretched Salt's head into the light, stared a moment, and with a laugh that the listening Mr. Brewster could not interpret, said:

"If that don't beat the Dutch—if this ain't my little Percy! What's he doing here in this rough company? Mother's darling better watch his step!"

Bernice Brown

By Bernice Brown

Saltonstall Cabot Adams was in no position to do anything more than stare. Sweetie stared too, her expression a provocative combination of amusement and something perhaps not so kindly.

"To think of seeing you here!" she remarked. "Well, as the saying is, the Japanese are an interesting little people."

"Miss O'Reilly."

"Reginald."

"My name (of course it's a little difficult to be dignified lying flat on one's back, even if one were a Cabot Adams)—my name is not—"

"Oh, of course, I remember. It's Le Roy."

"No, it's—"

Lady Says She Took Cardui and Never Saw Such Improvement—Was So Weak Couldn't Stand.

Weathersby, Miss.—Mrs. James M. Hall, of this place, writes that she was "getting weaker all the time" when Cardui, the woman's tonic, was first brought to her attention. After she had taken Cardui a while, she writes that she "never did see such an improvement."

"I suffered all the time and had pains all over," says Mrs. Hall. "I was so weak I could not stand. My skin was cold and flabby. I did not have any color. I had always been a very active woman—used to outdoor exercise, walking and going where I pleased, and to get down, not able to get myself a drink, was indeed a hardship."

"Nothing seemed to help me, till I began on Cardui. The first bottle seemed to strengthen me, and I sent for five more. By the time I had taken these, I was on my feet, going around, doing my work, gained in health and strength."

"I took two more bottles, and I am well and strong. Can work my garden." I haven't had any more sickness."

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

MOST DISEASE IS DUE TO OUR FOLLIES

Ignorance or Wilful Disregard of Hygiene Facts Affecting Heart, Kidneys, Lungs, Brain and Digestive Tract Causes Sickness.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

NATURE is long suffering but is never cheated. In the long run she is exacting and insistent. If you persistently and consistently violate her rules you will pay for your foolishness.

The worst of it is, too, we violate many a rule of whose very existence we are ignorant. That makes no difference. We have to pay just the same.

There is an old saying that "ignorance of the law is no excuse." It seems a pity to think we must suffer for doing what we did not know was wrong. But there is no escape. Nature's laws are immutable and unescapable.

Almost every illness is due to ignorance. If it is not due to ignorance, it comes from wilful disregard of known facts. Carelessness, indifference, conceit and pure cussedness are important casual factors in disease production.

There is little prospect of overcoming wilful disregard of the rules of health. The indifferent individual must be left "to stew in his own juice." He is hopeless. The only way I know of reaching him is to appeal to his regard for his family and friends. When he realizes that others suffer if he is sick, that their burdens are increased and their lives endangered, he may shake off his indifference and seek to be well for their sakes.

I am endeavoring to point out to interested persons the pathways which lead to health. I want to dispel the ignorance of health's geography. There are physical landmarks which should mean just as much to the seeker after health as material landmarks mean to the explorer.

To get to the point, what are the fundamental things? How can one begin to cultivate a manner of living which will make for health and long life?

The so-called "vital organs" are the heart, kidneys, lungs, brain and digestive tract. It would be difficult to get along without a spleen, liver, eyes and, indeed, all the other organs but the five I have mentioned are absolutely essential to life.

The brain is so shut off and protected by the bony skull that we need not worry about that. But the heart, kidneys, lungs and digestive tract are open to abuse or to protect just as we please. Abuse of the kidneys and abuse of the digestive organs are founded on the same manner of living, so we can group them together. You see, then, what we do with the heart, the lungs and the digestion will decide our physical fate.

Exercise or its omission determines the heart health. Fresh air and proper breathing fix the lung health. Right or wrong eating decides the condition of the digestion.

In the last analysis health depends on exercise, fresh air and proper eating. When these are taken habitually and the brain is treated to right thinking, you have laid the foundation for health and long life.

On This Thanksgiving Eve a Football Mad World Makes Ready For Rejoicing

Many are the minds that will share thoughts of turkey with thoughts of the gridiron. Tomorrow brings to a close one of the unusual seasons of football, yet it is not altogether unusual that football dope is upset occasionally. This year has seen many upsets in the football world. Vanderbilt lost to Auburn, Georgia lost to Tennessee, Michigan to North-western, Washington & Lee to Furman, Birmingham-Southern to Howard and Thanksgiving day will in all probability find numerous other teams entering the list of the disconsolates, new victories ringing to the heights.

Thursday we bid adieu to the reign of football and it is not without regret. Interest in the sport grows with the years. Each year sees new faces in the rank of fandom, the old

It is pleasant to look back over the season and see an Alabama team crowned a southern champion, with a team that is equal in strength to the eastern and western eleven and far outranking the entries of other southern school. week was generally favorable for fall crops in the southern states, except that rain was needed in parts of Florida.

The cooler weather was favorable for maturing sugar cane in Louisiana and grinding progressed in the southeastern portions.

Alabama: Individual reports for the state mostly fair with freezing temperatures nearly to coast. Probably much injury to truck vegetables and pastures generally. The little open cotton remaining in fields mostly in northwest in poor condition, account of damages by recent rains soon will be picked.

Harvesting of corn and sweet potatoes finished in many sections. The sowing of oats was general. Early plantings were doing well. The planting of cabbage is going on in coast regions. Sugar cane grinding progressing in southern portion. Satsumas being shipped in carload lots.
